Italian PM boosts diplomacy amid problems at home (AP via Yahoo! Singapore News)

Premier Silvio Berlusconi is expanding his presence on the world stage leading into next week's Group of Eight summit with a flurry of diplomacy aimed, at least in part, in part at diverting attention from the starlet scandal that has engulfed him at home. The end result? A poll published Sunday showed Berlusconi's popularity had dipped only two statistically insignificant percentage points in ...

Police: Father kidnapped boy, 5, from mom's home after courts ordered him to stay away (Asbury Park Press)

A man who was ordered by the courts to stay away from his ex-girlfriend kidnapped his 5-year-old son from her Lincoln home Saturday, and later abandoned his car when it got a flat tire about 40 miles away near Odessa, state police said.

Sharp show-offs settle into new home (The New Zealand Herald)

Australian imports Scar and Goldie are settling in to their new home at Auckland Airport and can even be convinced to put on a show. The two saltwater crocodiles - the only ones in New Zealand - arrived from Australia in April...

No apologies from 'Messiest Home' mom (The Cincinnati Enquirer)

When TV's Style Network filmed the "Messiest Home In The Country" show in Westwood, homeowner Sharon Baglien was so upset with the "Clean House" crew that she bolted as the host was showing her home makeover, worth $75,000 to $100,000, and accused the crew of stealing her purses.
